

Welcome to CESUN

The Council of Engineering Systems Universities (CESUN) was established in 2004 by universities offering educational and research programs in engineering systems. CESUN membership includes more than 50 universities in North America, Europe, Asia, and Australia. The Council provides a mechanism for the member universities to work together developing engineering systems as a new field of study. An overall objective of the Council is to broaden engineering education and practice. more...

CESUN Annual Meeting 2010: April 21 & 22, 2010

The 2010 CESUN meeting was held April 21 & 22 at the I Hotel, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. View complete event details . View full agenda .

CESUN Sponsored Major Symposium on Engineering Systems held at MIT, June 15-17, 2009

Read about the International Engineering Systems Symposium here .

Visit symposium website . PDFs of presentation slides available on the program page; papers for Day 3 presentations available here .

View symposium photos .